

So the president has decided to go home on election day and vindicate the memory of Tread.

There are 18,001 women attending the colleges in this country, which is an increase over last year.

Out of 200,000 Mormons in Utah and Wyoming, there are 12,000 polygamists, and gradually the number is decreasing.

General Butler having no one related to him that would use or appreciate his large library after his death, has made up his mind to give it to Colby university.

Next Tuesday the voters of Ohio will decide whether their state election shall take place in October or November. At the same time they should decide to take Judge Forsaker for governor.

Miss Clara Louise Kellogg has been forced to the opinion from personal experience, that "the day for large salaries is now a thing of the past, and the pay is growing less and less each year."

In Sumner county, Tennessee, there have been sixty murders since the war, and only three murderers have been convicted. The people of the county appear to have a pretty substantial regard for the life of a murderer.

A New York merchant who took a good measurement of Colonel Vilas the other day said he "would have been just about it for postmaster of his own town in Wisconsin. That's his full size." The merchant seems to understand the postmaster general pretty well.

Japan is getting a much stronger grip on civilization and national enterprise than China. As an evidence of this, the Hon. John A. Bingham, of Ohio, late United States minister to that country, says Japan is advancing in population very rapidly. The telephone, electric light and railroads are being pushed forward, while the postal system, organized within the last ten years, is as perfect as ours.

At the joint debate the other day between Governor Hooley and General Forsaker, the opposing candidates for Governor of Ohio, at Toledo, Hooley had the audacity to declare that "Abraham Lincoln died a democrat." Gen. Forsaker severely rebuked this shameful declaration, and reminded the audience that "instead of dying a democrat, Lincoln died by the hand of a democrat." It may not have been in good taste for Judge Forsaker to make that statement, but it was no more out of place than the falsehood uttered by Governor Hooley.

The power of self-will and the greatness of personal courage are strikingly illustrated in the awful death of Miss Emma Faulkner, of State Bridge, New York. She had been disappointed in love, and although suffering from no symptoms of insanity, she determined to take her own life. In the evening she deliberately removed the burner from a large lamp and poured the kerosene over her head and shoulders, and then coolly set fire to herself. She ran out doors completely untripped in flames, and before assistance could reach her, her clothes were burned from her body, and in a few hours she died.

Although Cardinal McCloskey's old age and long continued physical infirmities have prepared the public for the announcement of his death, the news will be universally received with regret. Aside from the fact of his being the first American bishop created a cardinal by the pope, he was respected by citizens of all creeds and classes for the mild benevolence of his character and entire freedom from anything like sectarian bigotry in his relations with people of other denominations and his treatment of public questions. His death occurred at 12:30 o'clock this morning.

The over supply of female labor in New York is one of the unpleasant features of the present time. It is claimed that young girls are paid four cents a dozen for enticing and heaving pocket handkerchiefs, and two cents per dozen for smoothing and folding them, and a good worker can do only twelve dozen a day and earn the meagre sum of forty-eight cents. Again, four cents is reported as the price paid for the sewing on a shirt, which, complete, costs in material and cutting seventy-five cents, and is sold unaltered at eighty cents apiece. And with the competition for work among the girls themselves there is no hope of better prices being obtained by them. There is not much hope of a change, as the competition for work is ever strong at these prices.

According to the latest statistics there are 72,000 persons suffering penal confinement in the United States. The question, then, how these persons shall be managed while in prison and how their moral and intellectual good shall be promoted, becomes a very important one. These questions will be discussed at the meeting of the National Prison association which meets at Detroit next Saturday, over which ex-President Hayes will preside. The question as to how the state prisons of the country shall be managed both as regards the system of labor and the manner of making them more thoroughly reformatory, is becoming of vital importance, and as some of the brightest and most practical men in the United States are to speak at the meeting of the association, something worth hearing and remembering will be said.

ABOUT SUSTAINING THE PRESIDENT.

It is the frequently expressed opinion of Harper's Weekly that the proper way to sustain President Cleveland is to defeat the democratic candidate for governor of New York. This idea does not seem entirely logical, but there are many other ideas coming from the Harper's this year which are not entirely logical, so that it would be captions to quarrel with the "journal of civilization" or any other mungwump paper on a common error of that kind.

The New York Times also wants Governor Hill defeated, that President Cleveland may be vindicated. The New York Evening Post claims that Duveport, the republican candidate for governor, and the president, are reformers, and therefore the success of Mr. Duveport would indicate that the people of New York want to sustain the administration. And then, all the mungwump papers in the east join in the laudation of the president because he has no sympathy with Hill and that faction of the democracy which nominated him. In other words the independent papers which have had their moral sensibilities shocked by the nomination of Hill, declare that the wish of the administration is that the spoils men of New York shall not succeed—that the success of the democratic candidate would be a rebuke to the reform administration of President Cleveland.

Then, there is the New York Herald, the great administration organ, which does not cease chanting the praise of Mr. Cleveland's reform ideas, puts the administration in this condition as respects the New York democracy:

"The public, not being an ass, knows that the convention fell under the control of President Cleveland's most virulent enemies, and largely through Mr. Hill's own manipulation of the delegates. It also knows that throughout Mr. Cleveland's whole service as governor, and ever since, Mr. Hill has been a nucleus around which all the democratic politicians in New York who want to defeat their party have clustered like flies around a fish."

So that we have from the independent press and from some of the more independent of the democratic papers the statement that the New York nomination is a corrupt one because it is a representative of all that is low, vulgar and dishonest in politics, and therefore the administration, being above the spoils system and running the government on principles of practical reform, can not and will not give the nomination of Hill its support. This has been the cry of the mungwumps for a month.

But there is lacking a spirit of harmony on these points between the president and the mungwumps. When the great independent journals of the east began the attempt to make the people believe that the president would have no more to do with the election of Hill than he would have the out of the world, the administration was placed in a very unpleasant position, and it became necessary to say some publicly on the question. So the president dictated to Colonel Lamont, his private secretary, the following, which was given to the Associated Press:

"The President is a democrat, and it is strange that any person should question his position. He earnestly desires the success of his party in the pending election in New York as well as elsewhere, and any assertion to the contrary is utterly and maliciously false. Here is a note for the 'Independents' to crack under difficulties. But this is not all. The editor of the Philadelphia Times, himself a democrat, sent a representative to Washington to find out just how the president stood on the New York nomination for governor, and at the white house he was told to let the people of Pennsylvania know that, 'the president is a democrat and is as anxious as any democrat in the country to see his party succeed. As a citizen he will go home and vote for all the democratic nominees.' According to the mungwump theory the president will go home and vote for the spoils candidate Hill and thereby rebuke himself and his administration."

As it has been definitely settled that the president will vote for Hill and thereby give him the support of the administration, it is worth while to see what kind of a man for governor of New York this 'reform administration' will attempt to place in so high an office. That Mr. Hill belonged to the most infamous gang of thieves and bribe-takers this country has ever known, is evident from the following, which is taken from the Utica (New York) Herald:

David S. Hill's entrance upon the stage of public life was a member of the Tweed log-jam in 1871. The assembly was democratic 65 to 35. Among the 65 was John Corey, of New York, who by the offices of Tweed's inspectors of election held the certificate of election which belonged to E. N. Treadwell. Tweed needed 65 votes to push his measures, and to keep Corey in, the committee on elections was packed to the hilt with Hill. The new and young member from Cheung, David S. Hill, was recognized as the one to do the master's bidding, and was made a member of the committee. Corey was seated by Mr. Hill's aid and the robber pluck of 65 was solid. The infamous measures enacted by that legislature need not here be recounted. They include the "2 per cent New York tax levy" which made Tweed, Oakley Hall, Dick Connelly and Peter B. Sweeney absolute masters of New York. But before this measure could be passed there was a break in Tweed's line, caused by an altercation between two of his friends—South M. West and Jim Irving. The latter knocked West down and resigned in anticipation of an investigation of the affair. This left Tweed but 64 votes, one short of the required number. Orange S. Winans was purchased, it is said for $100,000, and by his aid the Tweed measures were all passed. Every one of them was supported by David B. Hill—the present democratic candidate for governor. His very words have presented the consummation of the most infamous legislation ever enacted by a New York legislature. It was every time recorded with Tweed's, Tom Fields, Tim Campbell, Tom Creamer's and the bribed Winans."

NOTABLE HAPPENINGS.

DEATH OF THE CELEBRATED CARDINAL McCLOSKEY.

His Long and Useful Career—Preparations for a Terrible Explosion—Overlooked the Indian Education Plans—The War on the Mormons.

New York, Oct. 10.—Cardinal McCloskey died at 12:30 o'clock Saturday morning. (Cardinal McCloskey, the first bishop and superior archbishop of New York, was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., March 20, 1810. He was ordained priest in St. Patrick's cathedral, New York, in January, 1834. He was a member of the Irish hierarchy. On his return he served as assistant pastor and pastor of St. Joseph's church, New York, for six years. In 1840 he was consecrated coadjutor of Rt. Rev. John Hughes, then bishop and subsequently archbishop of New York, and in September, 1847, on the death of the bishop, he was installed as his successor. He remained in charge of this diocese seven years when, on the death of Archbishop Hughes he was transferred and promoted to the archbishopric of New York, being inaugurated Aug. 1, 1854. He was elevated to the dignity of cardinal priest by Pope Pius IX. March 15, 1875. Pope Leo XIII. conferred the red hat upon Cardinal McCloskey in the consistory held March 23, 1878.)

AN IMMENSE BLOW UP.

One Hundred and Forty-Tons of Dynamite To Be Touched Off.

New York, Oct. 10.—The preparations for blowing up Flood Rock, at Hall's Cove, were nearly complete yesterday. One hundred and forty tons of dynamite were to be exploded. The work, personally superintending the firing, was to be done at 11 o'clock in the morning. The two systems designed to demolish the rock were placed in position. The main shaft and the other over the lower one. These were formed respectively of sixteen and twelve-inch pipe, and drawing water on either side from the river, poured it in a ceaseless stream into the mine below. Prior to the placing of the dynamite the pumping ceased forever, and men began tearing out the boilers and demolishing the buildings over the shafts.

The police arrangements in the city will include the distribution of 450 policemen at or about the scene of the explosion, exclusive of those on board the harbor police boat. Three hundred of these will be stationed along the East river front, 100 on Bleecker island and fifty on Ward's island. The Astoria police, 100 strong, will guard the opposite side of the river. The building on Ward's island will be temporarily cleared of their occupants and the inmates will be housed in the almshouse and the asylum will be moved on the lawn at a safe distance from the buildings. In the vicinity of Blackwell's all the prisoners will be gathered in the halls and a corps of policemen will surround the building to prevent any escape.

It is thought the explosion will send fragments of rock 200 feet or more into the air, but it is believed they will fall back into the water at the point of explosion. A large quantity of dynamite has been taken, however, and no person or vessel will be permitted to approach within a radius of 1,000 feet of the explosion. Gen. Nowlin's suggestion that all large vessels in the neighborhood be vacated at the time of the explosion, will, it is thought, be generally observed, and it is estimated at least 500,000 people will witness the most tremendous blast in the history of engineering.

EDUCATING THE INDIANS.

Superintendent Oberly Gives His Views on the Subject.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., Oct. 10.—John H. Oberly, superintendent of Indian schools under Secretary Lamar, delivered an impromptu address Friday before the Indian Civilization conference here. It related principally to the management of Indian educational affairs under the present administration. He said that when he entered upon his duties he found no system prevailed, and many of the teachers were not suitable persons. He declared his intention of gradually weeding out the incompetent ones and filling their places with good Democrats. He condemned the present system of teaching. The list of text books to be found in Indian schools is a quarter of a mile long, and embraces the works of all the Republics of the world. He did not think much of this pretended text book education. He would teach the Indian not only the simplest rudiments, but what might be called political structure of the government, his rights of property and person, and how to work and earn a living. He did not think much of teaching boys to read and write, and to use a pen and ink. After educating the boys he suggested teaching them cattle-raising, allowing them to contract with white men to take herds on their reservations, and return them when called for, all the work on the reservations to be done by Indians. He also favored assisting them to raise cattle for themselves. Mr. Oberly said in conclusion: "I hope to make some radical changes, for I believe the only way to the light of civilization." The conference adopted a series of resolutions as a platform.

GRAND JURYMEN DISMISSED.

Because They Refused to Reinstate Liberated Mormons.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 10.—A few days ago Chief Justice Zane instructed the grand jury that they should present as many indictments against a man for unlawful excommunication as they pleased, dividing the time of the case continued into weeks or days, and finding a presentment for each period. Friday morning the district attorney wanted the grand jury to indict several men, whose first terms in the penitentiary expire next week, with the view to having them convicted and released, when they came out. Two of the jurymen refused to indict them, saying that the prisoners having served one term should be given an opportunity to voluntarily cease the unlawful practice. The three were taken before the judge, who severely lectured and dismissed them from the jury, ordering that the panel be filled by open voting. There is much talk on the street over the affair, opinion being divided as to the legality of the judge's action, but all look upon it as indicating his determination in showing Mormons no mercy.

Private Banquet to Handicapped.

St. Louis, Oct. 10.—A strictly private banquet was given to Vice President Handicapped at the St. Louis club house Friday night. Only forty covers were laid, and the affair is understood to have been of a purely social character. Mr. Handicapped was at the fair again, and was given a luncheon by the officers of the association at the club house, at which some toasts were drunk, and a six o'clock was made to obtain some practical expression from him, but he declined to be led away. The attendance at the fair Friday proves to have been the largest since the inauguration of the grand jury. Notwithstanding the crippled condition of the railroads and the necessary curtailment of the means of getting to the grounds, fully 120,000 people were on the grounds during the day.

It provides that all corporations doing business in the state, except banks organized under the general banking laws of the state shall, in addition to the other property required by the act to be listed, deliver to the assessor a statement of the amount of its capital stock, setting forth particularly the names and location of the corporation, amount of capital stock authorized and number of shares, amount paid up, market or actual value of shares of stock, the last dividend declared and when, the aggregate amount of all dividends declared for five years last past, the amount of distributions during the preceding year and preceding five years of bonds, stock or other property of any kind whatsoever among the stockholders, the amount of cash actually paid for such bonds, stocks and property, the total amount of all indebtedness, except for current expenses, including the amount paid for purchase or improvement of property and the amount of interest paid on the same, and the location, description and assessed valuation of all tangible property.

DESTRUCTIVE Prairie Fires in Nebraska. PRECINCT, Neb., Oct. 10.—Heavy prairie fires have been raging in the northwestern part of this county and in Cedar, Wayne and Knox counties for the past few days. A high wind has been carrying the fire very fast. Many settlers lost all their hay, some their barns, and a few their dwelling houses. All the hay on the farms put up for the winter county ranch of 5,000 acres has been destroyed. The loss will be severe on stock men, as there are large herds of cattle in those parts. The fire is slowly heading south against a strong wind and is expected to do much more damage.

BRIEFINGS.

Waterworks Monday evening at the Business Men's association.

The next attraction at the opera house will be Patti Ross, Tuesday evening, October 13th.

The Rifles and Guards have received their overcoats from the state. They are of the regulation pattern.

Mr. Mike Dawson was in luck last night. Q. O. Barnes rifled off a horse in Oliver Church's saloon and out of one hundred chances sold, Mike came out ahead.

Wm. Dolan, of this city, a brakeman on the Chicago & Northwestern road, had his right hand severely smashed while coupling cars at Neenah on Thursday evening. Mr. Dolan arrived home yesterday.

The old furnace in the Congregational church are being removed and the place filled by four of the largest steel door patterns. These will be set in the basement and it is hoped, will keep the building comfortably warmed.

The Madison convocation was held at Portage on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The bishop and nine clergy were present. Rev. Dr. Conover, of this city, preached the sermon Tuesday evening and delivered an address on Missions, Wednesday evening.

A dispatch from Evansville, this county, to the Milwaukee Sentinel, dated last evening, says: "Burglars entered the dwellings of Rector J. B. Finns, Wm. Stevens, John Montgomery and John Riley last night. At Montgomery's they took a pair of trousers, and at the other places they failed to get any plunder."

Mr. J. R. Botsford, of the first ward, had a valuable lap-robe stolen from his premises on Thursday evening. It seems that some one in this city has a regular mania for the possession of this kind of personal property, as several of our citizens have had robes stolen within the past few days.

The third story walls of the Buchholz carriage factory are about completed, and the roofing joists are being put in place to-day. The building will be one of the handsomest in that part of the city, and will make a first class show room even when compared with the Myers opera house on the opposite corner.

This morning G. A. Shurtliff's horse, which was standing out on Jackson street, near Milwaukee, "tried to turn around without the guidance of a driver. He turned too short and upset the wagon, throwing little Harry Shurtliff into the road. The boy was considerably bruised, but not so badly as to keep him in doors, and the damages were confined to the harness, which was rather torn to pieces.

The Broadhead fire department, at the fire that village on Monday night, were all broke up, or, if we rightly read the Broadhead Independent, they were terribly "rattled." It was the first service of their new steamer, and every fireman imagined himself chief engineer, and every citizen an assistant or confidential adviser. With all this class they succeeded in saving the foundation walls of the warehouse.

If a vote could be taken at this time on the question of water-works in this city, the result would be three to one in favor of the proposition. With the exception of a few citizens who are opposed to any kind of public improvement, the only difference of opinion among our people on the water-works question is whether the works shall be owned by the city or by a private corporation, a question easily settled after it is decided to build the works.

Mr. James Gardner, who has opened a blacksmith shop near the stable of the Galbraith Brothers, on East Milwaukee street, has had many years' experience in horse shoeing and has an excellent reputation in that line of business. Mr. Gardner was employed for upwards of eleven years by the Galbraiths in Scotland, and they as well as Messrs. Bowles & Madden, speak in the highest terms of his work. He solicits a share of public patronage, guaranteeing satisfaction. Give him a call.

Mr. Charles Hamming, who is employed in Richardson & Becker's shoe store, met with an accident this morning which narrowly escaped being fatal. He was carrying an armful of boots across the store room up stairs and walked into an open hatchway. He fell striking his back upon a case of shoes on the door beneath. The blow was a very severe one and will keep him in the house for some time. Had he struck three inches farther to the side than he did it would undoubtedly have killed him.

The reports of the presiding elders at the Wisconsin conference of the M. E. church, now in session at Waukegan, represent the different churches and societies in the conference to be in a very healthy and flourishing condition. Presiding Elder Lutz, of this district, gave in his report: The Beloit church especially is looking up. Extensive repairs are being made on the church property, and all the interests of the Beloit church are improving. Fr. Atkinson had raised over $3,000 for various interests, a remarkable showing.

During the first week of the special letter delivery in this city thirteen letters were received. Only one messenger boy has been employed, whose salary depends altogether on the number of letters delivered. The first week the salary, on a basis of eight cents per letter, would only be $1.04. At present there is no danger of the messenger being "bounced" on account of the number of applicants for the position. It is thought the system of special delivery will become more popular with the people as it becomes better understood. A dispatch from Washington says: From the reports received thus far it appears that nearly all the postmasters speak well of the future of the special delivery system, and the business is increasing. The local matter equals the outside matter in volume. The reports show that the letters generally have been delivered with surprising promptness.

A New Enterprise—The Girls' Social Club.

It is proposed to open on Thursday evening next, a Girls' Social club, in the building on the corner of Madison and Academy streets, fronting Ravine street.

The building has been put in excellent repair and the two rooms that will be used by the club nicely furnished. The rooms will be well-lighted and lighted, supplied with the papers and magazines of the day, with a musical instrument and with various games. The rooms will be opened afternoon and evening, except Sunday, and cannot fail to be a pleasant and profitable resort.

There are in this place a large number of girls employed in the mills and factories, and in the winter season in the tobacco warehouses, and it is hoped that many of them will avail themselves of the comfort and advantage of these rooms, all the tendency of which must be toward an elevated social life. A small fee that will be within the means of any girl, will be charged, both as a safeguard for the membership, and to aid in the maintenance of the rooms. Some ladies interested in this good work intend to be present during the hours the rooms are open and will aid as they are able in promoting the pleasure of those who attend.

The project of this club originated with Miss Mary Conover, and she with Mrs. Martha Ferslow have had complete charge of all that has been done thus far, and are to be responsible for its future conduct and care. They have been greatly aided by many generous citizens with money for repairs and furnishing, and have received, also, needed articles of furniture. Money is still required to meet necessary expenses already incurred.

The management of the rooms will not be in the interest of any religious body, but will be just what they claim to be, a well ordered secular resort for rest, reading and social intercourse.

It is expected to open the rooms with suitable public exercises.

Personal.

Mrs. Archie Reid has gone to Charles City, Iowa, to visit her parents.

Dr. Charles L. Clark, of Chicago, is spending a few days in this city.

Miss Mary E. Nelson, of Main street, Rockford, is visiting her friends in Rockford for a few days.

Mr. A. F. Hall, of the jewelry firm of Hall & Faroworth, returned last evening from his New York business trip.

F. Sherer, who has just received one hundred bottles of congress water, and he will keep this favorite beverage on tap during the winter.

Mrs. Frank Hammond, of Chicago, is visiting for a week or two with old Janesville friends. She is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Clark.

Mr. Wallace M. Carner, formerly book keeper for the Jewettville Boot Co., but who has been spending the summer in Stoughton, is back in this city.

Miss Kate Loo, who has been visiting for a short time with Miss Minnie Nowlan, of the Second ward, returned this afternoon to her home in Clinton.

Mr. Albert Anderson, of Des Moines, Iowa, is in the city. He came to join his family, who have been spending the summer here and they will return in a few days.

Healthy City.

There were only fifteen deaths in the city of Racine during the month of September, an indication that the Belts City is very healthy; in fact the small number is considered remarkable for a city with a population of 20,000, and there is not a place in Wisconsin that can show such a healthy record. It is the smallest percentage in years.—Janesville Journal.

During the month of September only one interment was made in Oak Hill Cemetery, and that one was a prisoner confined in the county jail who resided at Beloit. Speaking of healthy localities, just visit this city and you will conclude to stay, especially when the street railway and the water-works are in operation.

The Weather.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 54 degrees above zero. Clear with south wind. At 1 o'clock p. m. the register was 73 degrees above zero. Clear with south wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 39 and 62 degrees above zero.

An Explanation.

The firm of McLaughlin & Galbraith, doing business in Smith's block, was organized some four years ago, and have been successful in building up a large and satisfactory business. Miss Mattie McLaughlin has decided to retire from the active work of the firm, and while she will remain in the store until the first of January, the management of the business will be under the control of Mr. and Mrs. John Galbraith.

Mrs. Galbraith is a sister of Miss Mattie McLaughlin and during the past season has been in the store. She is fully prepared to represent her sister's interest as an active worker.

Mr. John Galbraith, her husband, has had the benefit of the past four years' experience and the business under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Galbraith will continue to prosper as in the past and their many friends and patrons will find them ready at all times to respond to the wants and demands of their rapidly increasing business.

The Gazette bespeaks for the new management the success which their business merits. The public will find their stock choice and very complete.

New Firm.

Having purchased the wood and coal business of J. W. Carpenter we are now prepared to furnish fuel of all kinds to those who see fit to favor us with their orders. Office and yard opposite C. M. & St. P. depts. Branch office at Metcalf & Gowdey's hardware store, 31 West Milwaukee street.

THE HOR CHOLERA.

Report of Dr. Anderson on the Disease and its Treatment.

State Veterinarian V. T. Anderson, publishes a long report of his observations and investigations of the disease now prevailing among the horses, cattle, sheep and swine in different parts of this state. Of the hor cholera he says:

"The hor cholera or as it is more properly called swine plague has prevailed during the past year in Buffalo, Columbia, Dana, Manitowoc and Rock counties."

I have not been able to make such investigations as I would desire, but intend doing so as rapidly as possible. There is no doubt but that disease is purely contagious, and I hope that a proper understanding of the circumstances attending its introduction and spread will enable us to establish such quarantine regulations as will effectually suppress and exterminate it. All evidence tends to show that the disease does not exist in this state except where introduced. In all the outbreaks that I have investigated it can be clearly traced to the introduction of diseased hogs. When once introduced its spread is comparatively easy, as the germ thrives not only in the affected animal but in all its excrements, and may be carried long distances by contaminated streams, by rats, or other vermin, by cars, boats, or the clothing of persons who come in contact with the disease.

Symptoms. The first thing to attract attention is vomiting or offensive diarrhoea. This is followed by loss of appetite, dejected appearance, arched back, weak gait, sooty looking skin, rapid breathing, cough when disturbed, a desire to hide beneath the bedding in a dark place. The belly is generally tender to pressure, and the skin between the legs, under the body and behind the ears is covered with small red spots, which become larger and purplish black as the disease advances. The mortality is always high, but the younger the animal the greater the proportionate loss. Treatment does not generally pay, for even if recovery takes place, which is highly improbable, it costs more to fatten the animal than it is worth. If, however, it is attempted, careful nursing and the judicious use of carbolic acid, both externally and internally, is about all that can be recommended.

When the disease makes its appearance no time should be lost in separating the healthy from the diseased animals. When diseased always move the healthy hogs so to remove them from the contaminating influence of the infected pens. The value of carbolic acid as a disinfectant in this disease can not be over estimated.

The practice of some farmers in selling their hogs when in a diseased state cannot be too highly condemned, for this such meat is unwholesome and unfit for food there can be no question. I have called the attention of the state board of health to this practice, and as the law imposes a heavy penalty, I have no doubt that they, co-operating with the local boards of health, will be able to suppress this traffic.

Patti Ross at the Opera House.

On Tuesday evening of next week theatre goers will have an opportunity of seeing this charming little actress in "Zip." The Omaha Republican of a recent date says:

Clever little Patti Ross played "Zip" to the satisfaction of everybody at Boyd's opera house last night. The play is one in which Patti is most successful, but we don't think even Patti herself, with all her ability, could have portrayed the character of the rough Zip better than Miss Ross. Years ago when Patti Ross made her first appearance in Omaha she evinced talent of no ordinary quality, and although only a child to the stage, it was predicted that she would some day gain distinction. That prediction has not gone unfulfilled, and she has not attained the limit of her success yet. As for her talent there can be no question, it is manifestly in the ability to make people laugh at the expense of everybody on the stage, save Miss Ross herself. She is so thoroughly clever, so graceful and so charming, and at the same time endowed with such an inexhaustible spirit of true humor, that she is able to make people laugh at the expense of everybody on the stage, save Miss Ross herself. She is so thoroughly clever, so graceful and so charming, and at the same time endowed with such an inexhaustible spirit of true humor, that she is able to make people laugh at the expense of everybody on the stage, save Miss Ross herself.

Her support is of the best quality, and is what she deserves. Mr. Blind at Elmore, Mr. Vermer at Jack, and Mr. Peroy at Waukegan being exceptions. The piece is very pretty set. Mr. Frederick Percy, Lotta's late stage manager, has supervised the production of Miss Ross's plays.

One of the treats of the season to theatre-goers was the presentation of "The Private Secretary" by the Madison Square company at the opera house last evening. The audience was large and the play created more laughter than any thing on the opera house stage in a long time. The loud bursts of applause which greeted the frequent sallies of wit and ridiculous situations with which the piece abounded, was evidence that the audience were well pleased. "Mistaken identity" is the source of most if not all the ridiculous and far provoking blunders of the play. Mr. W. R. Gillette who appeared in the title role, was the "drawing card" of the evening; his every appearance and action creating the most side splitting laughter; the intonation of his voice in some of his catch phrases, and his old maidish ways caused roars of laughter. Mr. Kennedy as Mr. Mortimer, an old East Indian, acted with great spirit and made the most of a very good part; Mr. Tannehill as Douglas, his nephew, was bright and amusing; Miss Addison as Miss Ashford, a spinster, very fond of spiritualism, did very well. Miss Maud Haslam and Miss Maud Giroux, as Edith and Eva, did some very clever work playing their somewhat difficult parts in a first class manner, and winning much applause. As a whole the company is a good one, and those who witnessed the presentation of the "Private Secretary" last evening were well satisfied, complaining only of too much fun for the money and time spent.
